Montana Senate, House O.K. Bills On Appropriations

Montana's University system is tentatively scheduled to receive $13,601,285 from an appropriations bill passed by the Senate Wednesday, according to United Press.

This is an increase of $6,975,434 from the last appropriation. Student fees are expected to amount to $2,413,000, which would be an increase of $1,433,000 from the last period.

Meanwhile, the House passed a bill providing $136,405 in deficiency appropriations for various state uses. How much of this money will be allotted to the University system is not yet known.

At this time figures are not available to show MSU's share of the proposed appropriations. The bills still need the governor's signature before being valid.

Chairman Says Crusade Drive Is Fight to Spread Information

"A fight for freedom is in progress on the University campus—a fight for dollars to enable facts and information about democracy to be supplied to the Communist satellite countries," Chairman Temple Brown said yesterday.

The Crusade for Freedom drive ends Monday. The University drive is part of the county drive to raise $700. The state goal is $12,000 and the national is $10 million.

"The people behind the Iron Curtain want information; they want it desperately," Miss Brown said. Most of the information the countries receive comes from the Communists who distort or omit facts from the news, she added.

Crusade Supports RFE

The Crusade for Freedom is pledged to support Radio Free

Europe and Free Europe Press, two methods used to distribute anti-Communist information to the satellite nations, Miss Brown said.

Radio Free Europe gives the news completely and accurately. Programs are broadcast explaining American customs and ideas; other programs present the satellite nations' own folk songs, literature and religion.

Well-known and respected exiles such as educators, farm and labor leaders, and journalists work for RFE. They broadcast 3,000 hours weekly to Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria in their own languages.

RFE started six and one-half years ago with one small station in West Germany. Today Radio Free Europe with its base at Munich, Germany, has 29 powerful transmitters and relay stations broadcasting to 70 million people behind the Iron Curtain.

FEP Used Balloons

Free Europe Press was established to supplement the work of RFE. It sends millions of balloons filled with leaflets and miniature newspapers into the hands of the people of the Red-dominated countries.

Gets 10 Years . . .

Butte Woman Sentenced For Killing

BUTTE (U)—District Judge T. E. Downey sentenced Mrs. Elizabeth Chapman to serve 10 years in the Montana state prison yesterday.

Mrs. Chapman pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree murder in the fatal mercy shooting last Aug. 30 of her husband, Elmer G. Chapman.

Downey suspended five years of the sentence and recommended that Mrs. Chapman be given psychiatric treatment at Warm Springs.

Mrs. Chapman has been held in the Silver Bow County jail in lieu of bond since Aug. 30, following the shooting at the Chapman home.

She claimed in a statement at the time of the shooting that she fired the shot at her husband's request because he was incurably ill and had told her he did not wish to live.

Foresters Put Final Touches On Scenes for Big Dance

Forty-four years of forestry history will be re-created this Saturday night at the annual Foresters' Ball. The brawny timberjacks have been busy at truly "Bunyanesque" labors, transforming the interior of the Field House into a woodsy wonderland, complete with a saloon. The future timber cruisers started hauling 3,400 of what laymen call "Christmas trees" into the Field House Wednesday night.

Yesterday afternoon classes were dismissed to enable the foresters to get the decorations started. They plan to work around the clock until the project is completed sometime this afternoon.

Foresters estimate that decorating for the ball will run into approximately 7,000 man hours of labor.

This year, because the dance is to be only one night, the full dance floor will be used. This is one-third larger than last year's floor.

An unusual sound effects method will be used to announce the different dances. Foresters are keeping quiet as to what this special effects is, but they guarantee that everyone would notice it.

Can-Can, Too

Intermission entertainment will be in true logging camp style. The Delta Gamma dance nall girls will entertain with a can-can number that may raise the temperature five degrees. To bring a cultural note to the evening, the Idaho Stump Jumpers will play a few appropriate musical selections.

Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. This year the theme of the dance is "Forest Products Utilization," which provides a broad area in which to improvise. The most appropriately costumed couple will receive a shirt for the man, and a skirt for the girl. The best dressed man at the ball will receive a shirt, and the best dressed girl will be awarded a pair of white beaded moccasins.

Tickets went on sale Monday, and in the first five hours, nearly 200 were sold. There are still a few left, however.

One of MSU's best known traditional affairs, the Foresters' Ball dates back to the days of 1913, when presumably people dressed up to go to the dance, instead of wearing costumes.

During those days when men were men, and always wore beards to prove it, it was the custom to show exhilaration by shooting up the ceiling. Now, in the effete Fifties, all guns, 44's to cap pistols, will be checked at the door.

Right after the roaring climax of the ball this Saturday, the wood ticks will be busy hauling away the debris, and shortly only a few lonely pine needles will mark where Paul Bunyan walked again.

Ben-Gurion May Demand Suez Passage

JERUSALEM (U)—David Ben-Gurion, the premier of Israel, was believed to have demanded immediate freedom of navigation for his country's ships through the Suez Canal yesterday.

Ben-Gurion met with United States Ambassador Edward Lawson to present a personal letter to President Eisenhower.

A strict blackout surrounded contents of the letter, but sources said the demand for freedom of navigation was made to the President.

Foreign ministry sources said Israel intends to "force the Suez Canal dispute into the open" by sending a ship through the Canal as soon as it is cleared.

Ben-Gurion also faced a new threat on his home front. A crowd of 10,000 shouting demonstrators protested Israel's withdrawal from the disputed areas and demanded the resignation of Ben-Gurion.

Israel completed pulling out of the Gaza Strip last night and is preparing to pull out of the Aqaba area sometime today.

New U. N. Report

In New York, Dag Hammarskjöld, Secretary-General of the United Nations, is preparing a new report on the Middle East to go before the General Assembly today.

The report is expected to deal with the completion of Israel's withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and the projected withdrawal from Aqaba.

The Assembly is pushing for a formal adjournment by this weekend. However, U.N. circles said it was unlikely that the Middle East would be debated in detail before Saturday.

Eisenhower Doctrine

In Washington, Congress stamped its approval on President Eisenhower's fight-if-we-must Middle East Doctrine yesterday.

The House gave final Congressional approval in a smashing 350 to 60 roll call vote.

Tragedy, Lightness Combined To Make Operas Successful

By GENELL JACKSON

A right balance of tragedy and lightness has been hit upon by Montana State University College Fine Arts in selecting "Riders to the Sea" and "Trial by Jury" for presentation here. The result is a thoroughly enjoyable evening. The students were especially effective in John Millington Synge's "Riders to the Sea." In her first major role, Sophomore Millene Ambrose turned in the outstanding performance of the evening. She sang the part of Maurya, an old woman who lost her six sons and husband to the sea. Her grief for Michael, the thirteenth son to die, was almost unbearable. Then the youngest, Bartley, who was played by Bob Jones, joined the others in their death.

Miss Ambrose undertook the task of portraying grief, and at the same time a sense of utter resignation to the inevitable, and a commendable job. The audience could not mistake her longing for death as a personal release from earthly suffering.

The fine voices of Dolores Pauling (Cathleen) and June Patton (Ma), the daughters, also added to the total success of the tragic opera.

In a lighter vein, the MSU Jubilee presented Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury." This was obviously the audience's favorite of the two, but because of the lightness and not the quality.

"Trial by Jury" is a hilarious panning of a breach of promise case. Larry Nitz, as the "scoundrel" defendant, has decided he loves another. Ursula Davis, the jilted plaintiff, appears in the court room in her wedding gown with Byron Christian to sing her defense. The whole case ends happily when the flirtatious judge, Ed Focher, says "I'll marry the girl."

Nitz and Focher are especially good in their singing roles. Jim Beadle, the usher, and Christian, also display well-directed musical talent. Miss Davis seems perfect for her role; her feminine allure and voice quality fill the bill.

Antics of jury members, especially Dick Riddle and Pat Fox, keep the audience laughing and lend to the total effect. Of course, the opera would not be complete without the bridesmaids.

Bo Brown, director; John Lester, musical director; Lloyd Oakland, choral director; Clem Peck, technical director, and the quintet and Patricia Robinson, accompanist for "Trial by Jury," deserve applause for their work.

13-Year-Old Girl To Present Recital In Music School

A thirteen year-old pianist will present a recital Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Music School Recital Hall. Barbara Blegen has studied the past six years with Prof. George J. Hummel of the Music School. No admission will be charged.

Miss Blegen will present music "which would test the technique and musicianship of one twice her age," Hummel said. The program will include "Thirty-two Variations on a Theme" by Beethoven. "This is a very taxing job," Hummel added. She will also present music by Bach, Schubert, Chopin, Liszt, Debussy and Shostakovich.

Miss Blegen began the piano at three and gave her first solo recital when she was 11. The program included music of Bach, Mozart, Chopin, Schumann and Debussy.

In 1955 she won the Missoula Civic Orchestra Young Concert Artist competition and she played the Mendelssohn "Capriccio Brillante" with the Civic Orchestra. In May of that year she won first prize in the Bach Division of a non-limited age group of the Spokane Greater Music Festival.

Miss Blegen presented a program for the annual Summer Workshop of the Montana Music Teachers Assn. in the summer of 1956. The "American Music Teacher," a national publication for music teachers, said, "Barbara Blegen... gave a flawless piano program."

Dear Editor:

Women's Recreation Association elections are scheduled for March 13. Inasmuch as WRA is an all women's campus organization, every woman student is a member. This is your organization and should reflect your interests. Would you like a co-recreation party? Would you like a spring picnic? What are your interests? Are you going to express your interests by voting for the candidate of your choice?

It's a growing national concern that we are becoming a nation of spectators as reflected by the number of people who just watch activities. Five million man-hours are spent watching television each day. President Eisenhower recently called together the nation's leading sports experts to discuss this growing pattern.

The WRA intramural program is fun once you and your team get out and play. You have said so yourselves. If you attended one game you would realize how much enjoyment one receives from playing in competition.

We don't want to be infected with "Spectatoritis." WRA offers a program of activity that would insure against this malady. There are many advantages in being a recreation participant. One can ease her mind from the "tortures" of the school day, laugh with friends, and most important of all, work off some of those excess pounds while having fun.

So come on, give WRA that old collegiate try. And remember, get out and vote. Be a participating member in WRA.

United Press News Analysis

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles apparently hopes to get the Gulf of Aqaba dispute into the World Court.

Dulles seems confident the court will decide Egypt has no right to blockade the mouth of the gulf.

There is considerable time in which to do this. The Israelis have dismantled the shore batteries by which the Egyptians formerly controlled the six-mile-wide Tiran Strait. And Israel has frigates in the gulf which could challenge any early Egyptian attempt to close the strait again.

Premier Nabulsi of Jordan repeated today the Arab view that Israel has no right to use the Gulf of Aqaba because that would be to reward her for aggression.

The Tiran Strait is admitted to be Egyptian territorial water just as the Dardanelles are Turkish territorial water and the Kiel canal is German territorial water. But the Gulf of Aqaba is admitted to be an international waterway, and international law says a territorial strait connecting two international waterways may not be closed in time of peace to the innocent passage of either merchant ships or warships of any state.

The legal question is whether the Palestine Armistice created a "time of peace," which deprived Egypt of the legal right to close the strait to Israeli shipping. The Arab states say it did not. Secretary Dulles and Secretary-General Hammarskjöld of the United Nations say it did. Dulles seems confident the World Court will decide the matter in Israel's favor.

L. A. Mayor Is Optimistic About Bums

By UNITED PRESS

Mayor Norris Poulson returned to Los Angeles yesterday and said the Brooklyn Dodgers may eventually join him.

Poulson and other Los Angeles officials conferred yesterday with Dodger brass in Florida.

"We want major league ball in Los Angeles," the mayor said, "and we want the Dodgers. I don't think New York will solve the Dodgers' problem. I believe we will propose a program the Dodgers can't resist."

The mayor told the Dodgers Los Angeles could build a "brand new stadium" seating 60,000 in one year.

The Dodgers are pressuring New York City officials for a new home and warned that if they do not get definite word within six months, they could move.

Protest Gives Corsairs Title

The use of an ineligible player cost the Orangatang the "E" league title in intramural basketball Wednesday.

Hurler, S-Stop Still Remain As Holdouts

By UNITED PRESS

With spring training well underway, two stars continue to hold out for more pay, but two other players signed yesterday.

General Manager Hank Greenberg of Cleveland persuaded pitcher John Gray and infielder Rudy Regalado to sign their contracts. Greenberg reportedly is making no headway with Chico Carrasquel.

Greenberg had threatened to impose penalties against Carrasquel by today, but he said last night that he will give his star shortstop a little more time to come to terms.

Pitcher Lew Burdette of Milwaukee is the other star holdout in the majors. He has refused to accept the salary offered by the Braves.

Elsewhere along the baseball trail the Yankees finally got a sunny day at St. Petersburg yesterday after three days of rain, and got in their first practice game of the year.

Shortstop Jose Valdivielso of Washington was the hitting star in a scrub game, collecting a triple and two singles.

Catcher Joe Ginsberg, a puny hitter for Baltimore last year, drove in two runs in a camp game yesterday.

Rev. Donald Kuhn To Speak Today

The Rev. Donald Kuhn will be on campus today through Sunday as a Religious Emphasis speaker.

The Rev. Mr. Kuhn, sponsored by the Wesley Foundation, will speak at a coffee hour at 4 p.m. today in the Religious Center of the Arts and Crafts building, according to Jean Ross, assistant director of the Affiliated School of Religion.

He will speak to the United Student Fellowship at the University Congregational Church at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Kuhn, author of "The Pink Christmas Tree" and technical consultant for the motion picture "Far From Alone," is particularly interested in the relationship of religion to the arts, Miss Ross said.

He received a B.A. from Oklahoma City University and a B.D. from Garrett Biblical Institute. He also has studied at George Williams College, the University of Chicago and Northwestern University.
